

conference Russia and Europe in 2020. preliminary results

27 november, 2020
online

the conference will sum up the social and political results as of 2020, relevant for Russia and European countries. it will cover the negative dynamics of this decade with the culmination in multiple crises in 2020 as well as it will try to connect the current situation to the hopes about a common European space of freedom and democracy 30 years ago.

EU Delegation to Russia

11:00

opening remarks

aleska simkic, eu delegation to russia irina sherbakova, international memorial

11:15–13:00

ruSSia and the eu. challenges from the post-empire?

2020 marked a dramatic shift in the perception of russia's domestic and foreign policy both domestically and by its western neighbours. the turbulence experienced by modern communities in russia and on its borders is an echo of the soviet history. can active participation of women and youth in politics offer new solutions to the problems enrooted in the structure of these societies?

moderator:
kirill martynov, novaya gazeta, moscow

speakers:
anna temkina, center for gender studies, european university in st. petersburg iwona reichardt, new eastern europe, poland carine clément, french national centre for scientific research

13:00–14:00

break

14:00–15:45

results of 2020

can we make some preliminary conclusion talking about the period of 1990 – 2020? how did european and russian paths intersect and diverge in those years? can we define this time as a period of unfulfilled hopes?

moderator:
irina sherbakova, memorial international

speakers:
tatyana vorozheykina, free university, moscow
ivan krastev, centre for liberal studies, sofia ralf fücks, zentrum liberale moderne, berlin kirill rogov, liberal mission foundation, moscow

15:45–16:00

closing remarks